

Sales Representative

Fortress Wood Products is a rapidly growing, medium-sized producer of pressure treated lumber products operating from 4 plants in North Carolina. We are currently seeking an individual with a college background in wood products, forestry, or business for an entry level position. Other majors will be considered if the candidate has building products work experience. Fortress will train the successful candidate in all aspects of the treated lumber business. The position will be based in our Martinsville, VA headquarters. Must be a recent college graduate or planning to graduate this Spring.
